Vale offers app for smartphones and tablets

The app was designed particularly for investors and journalists covering the company on a regular basis and it allows quick access to updated information, press releases, quarterly results and more

Vale launches today its Vale Investors & Media application for mobile devices (smartphones and tablets). The app was designed particularly for investors and journalists covering the company on a regular basis and it allows quick access to updated information, press releases, quarterly results and more.

The 2Q16 Production Report will be available on Vale Investors & Media app on the day of its release, this Thursday (July 21st). The 2Q16 Financial Results, to be released on July 28, will also be available on the application. The free app in English can be downloaded for iOS or Android.

Designed for investors, market analysts and journalists, the app makes it easier for the users to find information on Vale's performance, such as press releases, presentations, financial and operational indicators, photos, videos, events calendar and details on the company's history.
